ABSTRACT

This document contains validated activities and competencies needed by librarians working in an academic library. The activities and competencies are organized according to the functions which academic librarians perform: acquisitions; cataloging; circulation and reader services; collection maintenance; interlibrary loan; management; reference; and serials control. Within each function, competencies are grouped under the categories of Knowledge, Skills, and Attitudes, and three professional levels are dealt with: entry level (0-3 years experience), mid-level (4-9 years experience), and senior level (10 or more years experience). INTRODUCTION

This document contains validated activities and competencies needed by librarians working in an academic library. The following operational definition of competency was developed:

> A competency is a generic knowledge, skill or attitude of a person that is causally related to effective behavior as demonstrated through external performance criteria, where:
> - Knowledge is having information about, knowing, understanding, being acquainted with, being aware of, having experience of, or being familiar with something, someone, or how to do something.
> - Skill is the ability to use one's knowledge effectively.
> - Attitude is a mental or emotional approach to something, or someone.

We have identified several types of knowledge that are necessary to perform information work satisfactorily as follows:

- Basic knowledge in such areas as language, communication, arithmetic operations, etc.
- Subject knowledge of primary subject fields of users served such as medicine, chemistry, law, etc.
- Library and information work environments such as the information community, its participants and their social, economic and technical interrelationships, etc.
- Knowledge of what work is done such as the activities required to provide services and produce products, etc.
- Knowledge of the organization or user community served such as the mission, goals, and objectives of the user or the organization, user's information needs and requirements, etc.

There appear to be three kinds of skills necessary to perform information work satisfactorily including:

- Basic skills such as cognitive, communication, analytical, etc.
- Skills related to each specific activity being performed such as negotiation of reference questions, evaluation of search outputs, etc.
- Other skills such as managing time effectively, budgeting and making projections, etc.

Attitudes of librarians are found to be extremely important to work performance. We have found it useful to subdivide attitudes into:

- Dispositional attitudes toward one's profession, the organization served, one's work organization, and other people such as users and co-workers.
- Personality traits/qualities such as confidence, inquisitiveness, sense of ethics, flexibility, etc.
- Attitudes related to job/work/organization such as willingness to accept responsibility, willingness to learn, desire to grow, etc.

The activities and competencies are organized according to the functions which librarians perform, and by professional level as displayed in Figure 1. The competencies are cumulative across professional level, i.e., competencies of mid-level professionals include entries shown at the mid-level as well as those at the entry level, etc.

It is important to understand the distinction between functions performed and positions or job titles. Our rationale behind the functional approach was that we were more concerned with what information professionals do than with what they are called. In a single-person library, therefore, the librarian will undoubtedly perform more than a single function. In using and interpreting the competency data in this document, it is important to consider the functions being performed by professionals and the activities being performed to determine which competencies are appropriate. The functions identified for librarians working in academic libraries are:

- acquisitions
- cataloging
- circulation and reader services
- collection maintenance
- interlibrary loan
- management
- reference
- serials control.

Three professional levels were defined as follows:

- entry level (up to 3 years of professional experience)
- mid level (4-9 years of professional experience)
- senior level (10 or more years of professional experience).

The activities performed are listed first and numbered sequentially. The actual assignment of individual activities to subcategories of the major activities and to the functions varies from library to library. The organization of activities that we developed provided us with the "best fit" case. Indented and unnumbered activities are essentially paraprofessional activities which, in small libraries, may be performed by professionals.

The activities are followed by the validated sets of knowledge, skills and attitudes. Two versions of each of the lists are provided. The first set have those competencies designated by the validators as essential in bold face print, and those designated as desirable in regular face print. The level of emphasis is denoted by asterisks as follows:

* denotes each competency rated as essential or desirable by 50-70 percent of the validators of that competency

 denotes each competency rated as essential or desirable by 71-84 percent of that validators of that competency

 denotes each competency rated as essential or desirable by 85-100 percent of the validators of that competency.

The second set of knowledge, skills, and attitudes have competencies designated by the validators as becoming more or less important in the future. Again, the level of emphasis is denoted by asterisks as follows:

* denotes each competency rated by 1-20 percent of those who validated it (as essential, desirable, or not applicable) as becoming more or less important in the future

 denotes each competency rated by 21-40 percent of those who validated it (as essential, desirable, or not applicable) as becoming more or less important in the future

 denotes each competency rated by 41-100 percent of those who validated it (as essential, desirable, or not applicable) as becoming more or less important in the future

• denotes competencies rated as currently not applicable which have also been rated as becoming more important in the future.

ACADEMIC LIBRARIAN COMPETENCIES

ACQUISITIONS

ACQUISITIONS — ENTRY LEVEL

Selection

1. Develop a good understanding of the library's collection development policies and guidelines

2. Receive requests from college/university and library staff for purchase of materials for the library's collection(s) or for professional collections

3. Forward orders for serials/numbered series to the serials control section

4. Select materials to order from publishers' catalogs, book reviews, bibliographies, circulation and interlibrary loan requests for materials not owned by the library, exchange lists, etc.

5. Supervise the preparation of lists of selected citations which may be reviewed by the appropriate faculty advisory group(s) for purchase approval

6. Forward bibliographic citations for selected serials/numbered series and any such materials received in the section/branch to the serials control section for processing

7. Examine shipments of unsolicited materials (blanket orders/on-approval shipments, gifts, etc.) to select which items are suitable for retention; annotate processing slips for each item as required

8. Assign processing priorities to all material selected for the collection(s)

9. Maintain a statistical record of selection and the usefulness of various selection tools

10. Supervise bibliographic searching and verification:

    search in-process file(s) (items on order, want lists, and received items not yet cataloged) and library's catalog(s) to determine if the cited titles are needed for the collection(s) annotate citations that are discovered to be serials/numbered series and return them to supervisor verify and locate additional bibliographic data, as required; refer problems to supervisor maintain record of searching and verification statistics

Selection (cont'd)

11. Search for trade and non-trade bibliographic information that technicians are unable to locate; refer problems to higher level staff, as appropriate

12. Determine source of procurement (jobber, direct, gift, exchange, etc.)

13. Prioritize recommended selections in each subject area; consult with mid level librarian to determine which materials should be placed on the want list for possible order action at a later date

14. Supervise order/request processing:

    prepare records (manual or automated) for items to be ordered/requested now/later prepare purchase orders, if required prepare order/request documentation for mailing claim outstanding orders cancel orders, as required
    re-issue orders to different sources, as required maintain statistical record of order/request processing operations

Receipt Processing

15. Supervise receipt processing of ordered/requested materials, blanket order/on-approval shipments, unsolicited gifts, etc.

    open packages and retain sender information check shipments against packing lists/invoices check shipments for damage examine received items for imperfections for unsolicited shipments, search in-process file(s) and library's catalog(s) to determine which items are needed for the collection update in-process file with receipt information update in-process file re: any errors in receipt or receipt of damaged/imperfect materials annotate packing slips/invoices for damaged/imperfect materials, incorrectly supplied materials, and unwanted materials annotate packing slips/invoices to indicate materials which are branch copies annotate packing slips/invoices to certify receipt of all materials retained deliver packing slips/invoices to invoice processor insert and/or update processing slips for materials to be retained

15. Supervise receipt processing of ordered/requested materials, blanket order/on-approval shipments, unsolicited gifts, etc. (cont'd)

    mark materials retained for the collection as required (invoice number, date of receipt, etc.) place materials to be cataloged on the appropriate book trucks forward any serials/numbered series received to the serials control section process materials for the professional collections as required and place on the appropriate book trucks send form letters to acknowledge gifts, if appropriate prepare damaged/imperfect materials, incorrectly supplied materials, and unwanted materials for return to suppliers, if appropriate place unwanted/damaged items not to be returned to suppliers in specified area to await proper disposal maintain statistical record of receipt processing operations

16. Supervise the delivery of library materials to the cataloging section at regular intervals

17. Supervise preparation and disposal of unwanted library materials

File Maintenance

18. Supervise creation and maintenance of in-process file(s)

    input orders/requests, want list items, unsolicited receipts update records based on correspondence received and actions taken update records with receipt, return and disposal information update records with cataloger assignment, if appropriate update records when cataloging has been completed and items are no longer in process delete records at appropriate intervals, maintain statistical records of file creation and maintenance operations

19. Supervise maintenance of accession records for materials which will not be added to the library's collections, if required

ACQUISITIONS — ENTRY LEVEL

Other
